

Printing and Saving Files

For some reason, ChemReview files and pages that display on the screen from the web may not print to a printer. I do not know why. The “save as” function under the file menu also seems to want to save the file as a web page rather than a PDF, which will not work.

However, if you display the file in Adobe Reader, then click on the SAVE icon in Reader (the disk on the top right), the file will save as a PDF to your hard drive.

When you then open the saved file using Adobe Reader, individual and groups of pages seem to print properly.

If anyone knows how to fix this problem, please let me know at feedback@chemreview.net